Letter from the Artistic Director

Welcome to Guest Artist, and thank you for spending part of your evening with Harbor Theatrics!

This season is a love letter to the arts. Guest Artist asks how our love of theatre meets the reality of making it. Thank you to Lisa, Denise, our cast, and the creative team for bringing it to life.

And we have so much ahead! From the backstage chaos of Good Show, Everybody to the original stories of the Safe Harbor Play Festival and our developmental production of Voice, we're making room for laughter, discovery, and new voices. Our cabarets will keep us singing through the year, from Christmas to Pride and beyond.

We're building a place where artists can take chances, audiences can discover something unexpected, and everyone feels welcome.

We're already looking toward 2027–2028, and we'll announce that season in January 2027. Here's a small hint: we'll be exploring what it means to find home. Think about the families we're born into, the people we choose, and finding our way back to one another. I can't wait to share more.

Thank you for buying a ticket, supporting these artists, and helping Harbor grow. There's a lot to look forward to, and I'm glad you're here for it.
Warmly,

Jordan Matt-Zeitler

Tom Kopp

JOSEPH HARRIS

Tom is incredibly grateful to Lisa, Jordan, and the team at Harbor Theatrics for the opportunity to play Joseph Harris in Guest Artist. Tom most recently appeared as Robin in West End Players Guild's production of The Children and has directed productions for Midnight Theatre Company, West End Players, Saint Louis Shakespeare, RS Theatrics, and Theatre Guild of Webster Groves.

He would like to thank his castmates, Todd and Mike, for being such great partners throughout the entire experience, Susan for the unending wellspring of support, and his work besties for holding down the fort so he could play pretend for a while.

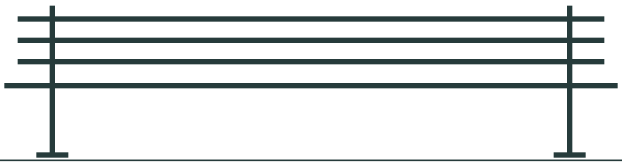

Todd Garten

KENNETH WATERS

Todd Garten is thrilled to make his debut with Harbor Theatrics. He received the 2025 Arts for Life Best Featured Actor award for his role as King Basilius in Take Two's Head Over Heels. Favorite roles include Rod in Take Two's Avenue Q, Ned Ryerson in Hawthorne's Groundhog Day, Jacob the maid in Take Two's La Cage aux Folles, Angel in Tesseract's Kinky Boots, and Professor Callahan in Alfresco's Legally Blonde.

Todd is VP of Operations at DOORWAYS and raises money for the Children's Tumor Foundation as director of Cupid's Undie Run each February. He thanks his husband, Mike. @tgarten

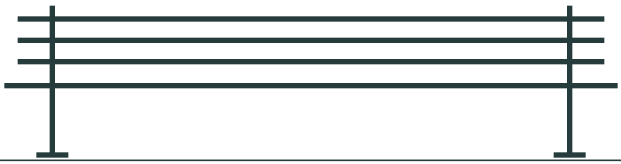

Mike Maskus

TICKETMAN

Mike is delighted to return to Harbor Theatrics as the Ticketman in Guest Artist with this funny, talented cast and crew. Recent credits include sarcastic Saul in PlayOn!, dilettante detective Hannibal Hix in Any Number Can Die, prattling postman Mishkin in Fools, virgin ventriloquist Nathan Monroe in Amateurs, magnanimous Malcolm in the Scottish Play, and the subtle yet succinct Hopkins in The Crucible.

Thanks to Harbor Theatrics and everyone involved in this fun show. (Oh, and Cathy, too.)

Keep coming back.

More stories. More music. More nights at the theatre.
